

SECOM (Delmic)

A light microscope that can be put in the Supra55 SEM by replacing the door of the vacuum chamber

This enables simultaneous photon detection and electron detection (SE2 or In-Lens BSD)

For specifications see this page.

Applications in CLEM (Correlative Light and Electron Microscopy) and Cathode Luminescence

